The Future is Now

Solar energy is a clean source of independence and decentralized power for everyone. Every person can be a part of the energy future, powered by solar technology. The sun is sending enough energy per year to power the world's energy demand 10,000 times. Millions of solar arrays are providing electricity to homes and businesses globally, with countless solar modules added daily. The German brand AXITEC has helped lay the framework for the future since 2001 with installations on roofs and ground mounts, generating CO2 neutral electricity around the world. This long term experience in different climates and geographical areas enables AXITEC to offer customers the benefit of a reliable high-performance product. The continued process of improvements is the core of Axitec's philosophy and is the basis of the company's high-quality and industry leading warranty standards.
